Become a Tabletop Exhibitor

Connect directly with industry decision-makers

Present your products and services to key EHS managers and leaders from companies across the battery and lead-control industries. Meet face-to-face with the individuals responsible for selecting and purchasing EHS equipment, supplies, and services. Inform current and prospective customers about your offerings, demonstrate solutions, and build lasting business relationships.

Unmatched access to your target market

As the largest meeting of lead battery manufacturing and recycling industry EHS professionals in the nation, the BCI EHS Conference delivers concentrated access to your most important prospects. This focused gathering creates an ideal environment for meaningful business conversations that traditional sales channels cannot replicate.

Quality engagement in a dedicated setting

Unlike broad trade shows, every BCI EHS Conference attendee shares a commitment to environmental health and safety excellence. This targeted audience means each conversation has strong potential to develop into qualified business opportunities. Attendees come prepared to evaluate suppliers and make purchasing decisions.

Maximize your investment

The intimate two-day conference setting allows for extended conversations and multiple touchpoints with the same prospects. Position your organization as a trusted industry partner while generating immediate sales inquiries, qualified leads, and long-term industry relationships.

Secure your tabletop space today and connect with the industry's key EHS decision-makers!

Secure your spot by August 18!
